We are indebted to you for your service. So I thank you for that. And I have had just the great opportunity to work with Ryan and Steve. It really started, I'll just mention that at Javits, right, that's where we first interacted. So you all came to that public health	1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24	2/7/2024 – SEMSCO Meeting – Troy, New York you here and a part of this and a part of the team. So going into the bureau report for operations, we continue to do our initial prior to full-service inspections, we continue to send out the survey for a self-assessment of an agency. We had a really interesting update in this in the past few days, that we're going to be working with the quality committee to take an opportunity during this full-service inspection at the end of this full-service inspections to share some additional information related to quality and to share maybe a one pager that the quality committee is going to come up with where agencies can find just information, what they can do, some best practices and what they can look for, for work. We recognize that a full-service inspection is part of an inspection. But it's also an opportunity to learn. It's an opportunity for district chiefs to share information out there to share things with other agencies. So that they can see kind of best practices from around the State and, you know, kind of bring them into their agencies not have to recreate the wheel, we're happy to see that one move

So Dr. Lewis Marshall, who I think unfortunately had to go home and already, so he is on his way back down to New York City. He has served the council for almost 25 years and almost 20 years I think as Med Standards Chair. He did say that he became Med Standard Chair because he made the mistake of going out for a cup of coffee and came back in and became chair. But I will say it was probably one of the best decisions, both the team meeting going to get a cup of coffee and whoever was in the room to move him into that role. And he's a phenomenal leader. He's done amazing things for us at the State. I think in the New York City region, as well as under his leadership down there and really

I would like to say thank you for everything that you've done as chair, everything that you continue to do for the E.M.S. community, and everything that you've done to make E.M.S. advance in New York State. So thank you very much. [Applause] MR. GREENBERG: With that, that's the end of my report. CHAIR MCEVOY: Any questions for Director Greenberg? MR. RABRICH: Yes. CHAIR MCEVOY: Okay. MR. RABRICH: Yes. So with regard to community paramedicine, you talked about the advisory group and as you know, there was some lively discussions around community paramedicine earlier today and I think the consensus of the physician participants is the importance of an E.M.S. physician	4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24	think we'll get some qualified people applying for that. Let's see, Al already gave us a lot of information on E.M.S. essential services is slowly moving forward, which I think is very important. And I guess he'll give a better report when we get to legislative later today. And with that, I'm going to turn it over to Dr. Rabrich to talk about the second mo motions from Med Standards. MR. There's money out there that's not being vouched for, it's not getting used. It is we have done a great job as a Finance Committee pushing forward and asking for there to be more funds in that budget, and the answer back is as soon as you spend all that money we can talk about giving you more. So I think the director and the bureau staff are trying to do things and we can give them more suggestions on what to do, not just the ones that we already have so that they can find ways to make sure that money gets spent.

CHAIR MCEVOY: And for those who haven't been around as long as your recollection goes back, they lingered for a really, really long time at D.L.A. Finally came back with a bunch of recommendations, and so we have the current bylaws, the proposed changes, and the D.L.A. recommendations. And then, we also received templated bylaws for councils and committees from D.L.A. that we're also comparing to – to what we currently have, so there's – there's plenty of opportunity to fix those things now. MR. LANGSAM: Our bylaws have no legal standing versus whatever the law might be, okay? Whether the law is as the Open Meeting Law states, or as the law as somehow or other SEMSCO has a special set of rules which is what our lawyers claim. What – if I may digress, what is long overdue is the bylaws being updated. And this has been now at least three years that the bylaws have

DZIURA: So according to the official records of the Division of Legal Affairs on the adoption of bylaws, the current copy was adopted on December 12th, 2007. There was proposed amendments put forth on December 24th, 2014. I'm not sure why it happened on Christmas Eve, but that's when it happened. Those were not adopted. They are not effective. So the	800.523.7887 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22	2-7-2024, SEMSCO Meeting Associated Reporters Int'l, 2-7-2024, SEMSCO Meeting – Troy, New York to everybody. Number one, what are the current bylaws? I think it'd be very easy, and I am not volunteering to do it, but to to consult to consult the minutes from 2014 and '15 and confirm whether they were voted on or not. And and establish that the 2007 bylaws are indeed the 2007 bylaws. I think secondly, it would behoove us to have Division of Legal Affairs explain to us, maybe in a paragraph, why they ruled today the way they ruled on what they believe the predominant decision is on a quorum for a vote. Because we're tossing there's a couple people here who have tossed back and forth, General Construction Law versus Department of Health Policy versus bylaws. What is the basis of the decision that they have made, that they recommended to us for the vote today? And I think that sets us up to be in a position to discuss, number one, bigger bylaws change project, but number two and and look, Mark put
